Medicine and Surgery of Paris, France,
SURGEON OCHLIST,
AND PROFESSOR OF CHEMISTRY has the hoard to apprise the Ladies and General his old metalisment of Members and former patients, for this sixteen year great and vicinity; and, in general his old metalisment and former patients, for this sixteen year part, that he has begue ance his former partice of Medicine and Surgery, at his Dwelling, No. 19 Bridge Street; where he offers his professional services to them, as a Surgeon Bentint and Occlisit his long experience and reasonable warranties, given to those who place confidence in his skill, dexterity and performances in giving general satisfaction, will have the merit to assure an enlightened public that their patronge will not be met with, under regard to their truet, either for themselves or their cheffers in regulating the defects of their teeth in the different operations performed in the art of Bentistry upon where.

As a Surgeon Occident in the varieties of discate operations performed in the art of Bentistry upon them.

As a Surgeon Occlist, in the varieties of discusses either chronics, inflammatories or mechlemads, which affect the Fres and the Sight, either in young subjects or older ones; the Boctor during his hate solourn in the city of Paris, has by deep scientific and laborious studies, rendered himself enshandly nequainted with them, principally with dose concerning the operation performed on STRABICS SUBJECTS, or Squim Eyed.

This delicate operation which gives inmediate relief to an awkward and disagreeable deformity of rature, performed by a skillful operator, is reduced to about 30 seconds, or, to the farther, to one minute's anxiety; and, no other hurt or sensation than the feeling of a mite of sandgentering under the Eyelids, or the prick of a fine cambric lina needle, introduced in the feeling, and me instruments used in performing the operation, will be all sufficient to induce a Strable, without any hesitation to desire the intendiate performance of the operation.

It is necessary here to state, that in 1841, the Doctor was the First practitioner who introduced and performed the operation of trabiant, in the city of New York, upon 24 Strables subjects, with an indisputable success, after having operated upon expands of 300 in France, june 21.

Professor Alexander C. Barry's

Tricopherous, or Medicated Compound, for restoring, preserving, and beautifying hair, cralicating sourf and dandruff, and curing diseases of the skin, glands and muscles, stings, cutr, butiest, spraint, &c.,—In order to coavince the public of the officacy of any curative preparation, in this thinking and reflective age, it is necessary to explain the philasophy of its operation. The process by which Professor Barry's Tricopherous produces such extraordinary results, cannot bounderstood, without a brief notice of the structure and uses of the delicate substances to which it is applied, and in the condition of which it accomplishes the most salutary changes. The connection between the hair and the skin is ro close, that the one may almost be deemed a continuation of the other; and hence whatever resevates, resorres, and nourishes the hair, must of necessity have a healthful influence upon the sensitive membrane in which its roots are fixed. The skin, that wonderful envelope, in which the sense dermin, or cyclicity a semi-opaque, or almost sitely sensitive ruse skin; and the true skin istell, which constitutes the third layer of the triple cavelope. In this tough, flexible, and clustic integrament, are located the nerves, blood-vessels, &c., which supply sustenance to the hair, and in the derargement of which diseases of the skin originate: The results of the true skin supply the sacs containing the roots of the hair with the moisture which mistins the fibres, and the same causes which affect the health of the lair, also affect the health of the lair, also affect the health of the skin. It acts through the skin open the bair, rimusating the inter vessels, opening the pores, imparting activity to the circulation, awakening from their letchary all the vegetative functions which give life, vigor, and beauty to the fibres, extirating every particle of sourf and dandruff, and soon clothing even the laid of the skin, and

We call attention to the advertistment, in another column, of Patent Spring Chairs, which are manufactured by the American Chair Company, at Tray, N. Y. For elegance, case and durability, these chairs entirely surpass all others which are nade. A great variety of them are now for sale at No. 12 Broad street, by Mr. Landers, who is agent for the Company, in this town. There is want of a most comfurtable and elegant chair, ottomen or plano-seat should call and examine these, and they will certainly be suited Russian Nounary.-The private resblences of the nobility at Moscow are furnished with unparalled magnificence. and the muscums and libraries which they contain surpass in extent many public collections in other countries. In their style of living the nobles display a similar ambitton to rival the grandour of princes. Some of them have as many na five hundred domestics; and in the banquets which they give, the splender which reigns around is said to equal the sumptuous exhibitions of Oriental courts. But the state of the people in large is little in accordance with these external signs of power and grandear.

But if they do, they will, if enlightened, alike disapprove of sedition, riots ened, alike disapprove of sedition, riots and violence, against the laws made by a majority, till repealed by a majority, or thi quietly pronounced unconstitutional by the judiciary. It is this compact, which must not be violated—or all compacts may be treated with perfidy. It is no justification that we dislike the compact or lawa, else all compacts or laws, disliked, as many are on one noint or another, might be violated. one point or another, might be violated one point or abbier, might be violated with impunity. In such cases in our political system, it is obvious, that obedience is a duty, till a majority agree to changes; and an culightened conveience teaches that when obedience can be rendered to larger by a minority, they should withdraw from such a compact and Covernment, rather than oppose it with turnult and violence. A distinguish of statesman (Bolinghroke) has said, that four obligation to submit to said, that can originion to animal to the civil law, is a principal paragraph in the natural law. Christianity and the Bible, to, instruct all consciences to obey the existing laws till repealed, unless resorting to a revolution, which unless resorting to a revolution, which is exposed to proceedions for treason, and never justifiable except under oppressions intolerable, and not otherwise reacdiable, almost impossible in a Government lise outs, which these opponents have adopted, if not helped to make, in which they are fully represented, and which a majority can peacefully changent the ballet baxes. How year different is such a case, from that very different is such a case, from that between Great Britain and her Colonica, when our Revolution took place: and how is the ground for any resort to violence wholly overturned, and nothing left to justify rash and bloody in-

Look to another consequence of this doctrine of a higher and uncontrolled law to each citizen in a Government of regulated control and fixed laws. Each will then have his own law for every thing for himself—which is the state of nature with no Government but that of the strongest-with a despotism by mere force-with constant war and the miscrable anarchy, where, as a saga-cious divine once said on another occa-sion, assassination will become the law with one-robbery the law with another-lust with another-tyraney and unbridled power with others.

Recollect, too, amidst all other con-siderations, that if these violent courses are insisted on, even to a dissolution of the Union, that the abetters of it do no thereby abolish slavery, but leave the South free and independent to perpetto the North thereby merely the loss of their trade, and perhaps barder wars more attocious and bloody than the weet of antiquity. werst of antiquity.

A statement of these things is repeat ed, in order to place the subject-matter of the recent outrages and some of the applogies for them, in their true light.

And I beg leave to assure you it is done can to those who may feel that they have been exposed to repreach, merely by the occurrence among them of these forcible outbreaks, in a manner so alien to New England habits and education -and so unlike its usual patriotism and religious respect for law and order, as by the blessing of Providence, to show on its very face a different parentage. But to wipe off entirely any stigma from the mass of the community on this account it belocates all the invest. account, it behaves all the innocent, like good men and true, to stand forth in the light of Heaven, and, under their duties and oaths to their Maker and their souther to their which we have the standard true. their country, to arrist in punishing of fenders; and thus, it is hoped, prevent-ing a repetition of misconduct so fla-grant, as in principle to prevent the whole administration of the laws, and overturn the very foundations of social order.

Your attention is next invited to some other offences, connected with those ni-ready described, in relation to this unfortunate subject; but which depend on fortunate angles; our mina depend on general principles or on Statutes passed long ago; touching other duties to the General Government and its officers. and yet have been trampled on indis-eriminately and wantenty, in order to defeat the Fugitive Slave law, and with-out any pretence whatever—that they are unconstitutional.

These belong to two leading divisions. One is, aiding, abetting or counciling any act in opposition to the arrest or helping the escape of any prisener, whether fugitive from labor or not.

Another is, an assault or murder committed on a public officer, who has a lagitive from labor or any other prisoner in charge; or committed in aiding an escape or in resisting an arrest by violence.

It is high time the community were undeceived on this subject. The law looks through all devices and all cobweb dieguises, in order to reach real guilt; and though one acreens himself by absence, or dares not openly particiby assence, or cares not openly partici-pute in the violence he recommends to others; yet he is often more culpable than the apparent actor in evil, and must be rigidly held answerable for his misbehavior. He is usually well in-formed, and more responsible in prop-erty than his instruments or victures. the ignorant and the fanatical. He is clien one, that by good advice would persess great power to influence the masses to sustain I w and order, and aho by his more elevated condition in society is looked up to as a model or cracle, and could thus extengthen the balmarks of protocrty and good governtheignorant and the fanatical. He is cracle, and could thus strengthen the bulwarks of property and good govern-ment. Let such men then be made to respond to the full extent of their mor-al and legal delinquences in these mat-ters; while others I is intelligent and clearly excited to wrong and misled by them, receive more sympathy. Such a started advisors leave the gun, which they themselves have not the course and arged the wreetness lightyes into toreible resistance to the laws. It will be noticed, that I speak not now against free discussion of abstract questions, or of non, or measures, or of opinions retained in the author's desk, nor even of apinions publicly expressed, that violent resistance is lawful, but expressed without advice, and solicitation to them into effect. I am not treating of

But suppose that some reformer, overzealous and inconsiderate, exhorts such resistance, and that the butchery of the ministers of the law be netually at-tempted. It may be advised from the side walk to a crowd—or in the throng-ed Forum—or oven from the profunct pulpt—or behind the Press, scattering fire-brands and death to the four winds of Heaven, and the ignorant or depend-ent rush forward to do the bloody deed, ent mel forward to do the moody acea, and on the steps of the very alter of justice. Can we act like rational beings, or uphold law and order a single hour when thus in tribulation, unless hour when thus in tribulation, unless the former are punished, as well as the latter ?

Again, as another illustration, that none can kill to comprehend, suppose that your enemy advise and exhort a wenk-minded dependent to apply the midnight forch to your dwelling house, that "wife, children and sacred home" parish before your eyes, being unable to save anything from the flames except your own like—is not the exhorter to this, panishable for the horrid arson? I give it to you, then, in charge, Gen-

I give it to you, then, in charge, Gen-tlemen, as an illustration of this topic, that by the common law, "if A. advises B. to kill another, and B. does it in the absence of A., (now) B. is principal, and A. is accessory in the murder." (4 Bl. 6. If A., after so advising, is present at the murder, he is even a principal.

This is a part of the great jurispro-dence which our fathers acted on and claimed as their birthright.

Descending into details, the counsel for the Government will of course adces are so committed as to manner and place, as not to be open to prosecution before this particular Court, whose ju-riculation is in some respects limited.— So where an offender cannot be procecuted as an accessory here, but only as principal, though he may be an acces-sory at common law, or in a State

The other class of offences by prin cipals rather than accessories, and which are most likely to happen in conacction with the Fugitive Slave law: leserves a little further notice.

Murder is the prominent one; but under our system of mixed government, it is generally to be prosecuted in the State Court, though we have undoubt-ed cognizance of it when committed in any building or place exclusively within the jurisdiction of the United States, as well as on the high seas.
The other offence most likely to ec-cur and be punishable here in the prin-cipals obstruction or registence to the without killing or murder. This as early as 1750 (Stat. April 30th.) was made punishable by fine not exceeding $300, and imprisonment not beyond twelve months, and is highly penal, in-dependent of any provision in the fugitive Slave law punishing a rescue.

No matter if the resistance be to a process from a Judge rather than a court of the United States. Washington Justice says (3 Wash, C. C. 137) it is better that all the criminal law be struck out of the Statute book; as it is there only to show the debility of the government. No man can be brought for trial before the court without process; and if he can resist it with impunity, he cannot be brought at all; and he may resist every law of the United States with safety."

No matteralso what the precept mesne or final—no matter what the ground of it, civil or criminal no resistance to the ministers of the law—no derogation mutaters of the law—no derogation from its quiet majesty and rule, even by threats of violence—much more by blows, are to be tolerated. († Stat. at L. 117; U. Slattes vs. Lovery, 2 Wash. C. C. 169; U. States vs. Lukins, 3 Wash. C. C. 335.) Men must take heed to their duties as well as rights. They must duties as well as rights. They too, weigh well their dangers. Remember, that the officers of law are empowcred to resist the attacks of rioters on them to produce an escape when in the tation to produce an escapic when in me-execution of any legal process, even un-to death. Every rioter thus places himself out of the protection of the Gorcrament he is resisting. He becomes an out-law, and may be shot down with impunity by those he is wickelly assailing. (4 Bl. C. 179, 180; 1 Hale P. C. 191; 1 Hawk P. C. 71.)

Little could many of those, recently opposing the officers of justice, know their own danger, and that their lives had been spared only by the elemency or incredulty of those they attacked and little did they dream, that if their own attempts at resistance were accompanied by the death of those they opposed, they would probably have to expiate the offence, ugainst society and the lawe, like wretched felous on the gallows.

I shall now, gentlemen, part with this unpleasant subject, which, it is hoped, you will believe nothing could have tempted me to discuss except an impersion except and date. If I have the prior in the case of official duty. If I have aided you as I should, in a fair execution of the laws, connected with it—if I have rottened any prejudices against these laws so as to prevent violence and mismile and utter disunton-if I have mistule and utter disunton—if I have enabled you to do any more good in your intercourse with seciety by placing these laws in their true light and discouraging the indulgence of each hostility to them as to make good citizens half or fatter in their duty in assist to execute them, while ungenerated, and d started advisors losa the man, which they themselves have not the courage to discharge, but persuade others less intelligent and responsible, to fire at the public officers, and these others this secome expessed to be shot down by the efficers fin roturn, while the advisors

Concluded.

The only other justification for violent resistance to these laws and the Constitution, which has come under my notice, is, that conscience, or a "higher law" than these, disapprove of them.

But if they do, they will, if earlight is not to the laws that the second the laws in the ground to the word to the provided the wretched fugitives into govern, it is virtually overturned, and have passed by the general government, must be enforced or it ceases to govern, it is virtually overturned, and have passed by the ground to the wretched fugitives into govern, it is virtually overturned, and have governed that facely not now against principle dissolved. In such a case, likewise, there is substituted for the sanctity of law and order, when a mob canctry of tay and order, when a non-triumphis and goos unpunished, the government of a mob; the sword of justice is wrested from her grasp and violated by a nonh—the spirit of misrule and rebellion is substituted—the tumultous violence and unarchy of human passions, freed from legal restraint and ational and by plunder or revenge, are substituted; and though we all may deprecate the necessity of calling on deprecede the necessity of enting on the militia or ormy to protect the laws and violitiate their reign--yel they are far safer than the sway of an unfuriated mab, and must be invoked to assist in seconting the laws, if needed, rather than let the sun of the Republic go down in the clouds and blood of rebel limberlingtion. insubordination.

In conclusion, gent emen, feeling as I am aware you do, that this government was made or adopted by yourselves, and not forced on you by Lyranny—that it must be entained by yourselves through a faithful administration of the laws fill a majority choose to alter them—or elso the bayonet will be the only other resort and anythick marchy; I improve this occasion to exhort you to continue firm and united in standing by peace, order, the constitution, the laws and our holy Union.

And disagreeable as it may be to you or me-if my of our fellow citizens have, under sudden and misguided impulses, offended against the public safe-ty of everything dear to us, by ruinous attempts, I might almost say, treaton-able attempts to overturn parts of the Constitution uself-us well as some of Constitution uself—us well as some of the laws and violently obstruct their administration—painful if we must visit on them exemplary, but necessary p in islument; yet it is in my view not only indispensible to secure the sovereign ratin of the laws, but prevent all the reign of the laws, but prevent all the beauties and glories of our beloved Union from being scattered in fragments over a ruined country by the parricidal hands of some of its own children.

At the Burlington (N. J.) Court, the Jury, in a recent case of assault and battery, could not agree. As soon as the difficulty became apparent, they obtained a quantity of provisions and liquors, on which they feasted. Some of them getting quite lively, procured a violin, with which they amused themselves. They so far stepped beyond the bounds of propriety, that the Judge told them thay were a disgrace to the county.

A Pedler came up with -A pedler calling on an old lady to dispose of some goods, inquired of her, If she could tell him alana was the sundalle persesof one, and only one, which no pedler has ever travelled, (the pedler's countenance brightened) and that's the road to Heaven."-He sloped.

DAGUERREOTYPES. The pictures of the dead survive the living; how important to employ an actist of skill and experience to delinicate a perfect likeness. Holmes pictures the perple worthy the colmitation of the living and the successors of the dead and preserves the pertraits of men, women and children, on earth as the purson would save the souls of all in heaven the purson would save the souls of all in heaven eternally; Holmes takes a superior class of pictures to any herothore dane in Newport. The American Institute housered him with a Silver Medal for superior Daguerreotypes, a token not acquired by any other artist in R. Lafeither from N. "We have uniformly refrained from recommunding to the public any of the various Patent Medicines of the day, unless thoroughly convinced of their value. Among those we consider worthy of rottlee is the German Bitters, invented by Dr. Hooffand, and prepared by Dr. Jackron, in Phila delphia. One instance in particular, in which the superior virtues of this medicine has been tested, has fallen under our observation. During the last number, a son of Mr. Abraham Crahill, of this county, was very seriously afflicted with Liver Contribut, and after trying in vain various remedies, he purchased a bottle of the Bitters, and after using it, was so much relieved of his distressing malady, that he procured another bottle, and is restored sentired to the stretch patents.

"We believe Dr. C. M. Juckson's 'Hoofland's German Bitters,' to be a most excellent medicine, and one that should be highly popular in these days of Temperance—for they are altogether Vegetable in their composition, without one drop of Alcoholic Spirits in them. This medicine is innocent, but strengthening in its effects, and richly deserving of an unbounded popularity, which, when it becomes known, it will, no doubt, fully enjoy."
